ABSTRACT

Overview of the Principles of Non-Discrimination on the Import of Used Clothing in the World Trade Organization (WTO) Perspective

The objectives of this study are: To know and analyze the Principle of Non-Discrimination in the Import of Used Clothing in the Perspective of the World Trade Organization (WTO) and To analyze and criticize used clothing import activities based on the Law. The formulation of the problem: 1) What is the principle of non-discrimination on the import of used clothes in the perspective of the World Trade Organization (WTO)? and 2) Is the Activity of Importing Used Clothing Contrary to the Law in Indonesia? With the formulation of the problem, the method used is Normative juridical, the results of research related to 1) WTO Ministerial Decision even though it is separate from the WTO Valuation Agreement, because it is part of the WTO Agreement, the status of its enforcement and legal force is the same as the WTO Valuation agreement. As for the legal products of the World Customs Organization in the form of Advisory Opinions, Commentaries, Explanatory Notes, and Case Studies that have been issued by the WCO Technical Committee on Customs Valuation in its Valuation Compendium,. In practice, Indonesian courts can use interpretation methods based on existing laws and regulations to give legal effect to the substance of international treaties. and 2) Basically the WTO provisions in the Uruguay round that include the principle of non-discrimination require a commitment from every country in international trade transactions to impose a fair system, trade liberalization, removal of barriers, and transparency. Thus, it should be used as guidance for member states to adopt and implement it in their national legislation with broader considerations for the creation of an orderly world trade order as the purpose of international trade law according to GATT and WTO
