CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

5.1 Conclusion

This research aims to find the challenges faced by teachers in teaching English as a local content lesson in one of the Muaro Jambi elementary schools and how the teacher overcomes these challenges. Researcher focus on the challenges faced by teacher during teaching and how teacher overcome these challenges.

The findings in this research contain several challenges faced by teachers in teaching English as a local content lesson to young learners which relate to several aspects of challenges, including challenges originating from students and teachers' teaching facilities. Challenges originating from students include students' English cognitive development is lacking, lack of supports from students' parents, student discipline, students different levels of proficiency and lack of teacher teaching preparation. To overcome these challenges and the challenges that will arise later, teacher use various strategy, in the form of providing memorized vocabulary and giving assignments to students, providing reward method and support to students, using ice-breaking methods to restore students' focus, creating a study group, teacher explains the lesson material more than once, carrying out remedial measures, and provide teaching media.

5.2 Suggestion

Based on these findings, researcher suggest that teachers use various learning methods so that students are enthusiastic about learning and do not get bored when the teacher explains the lesson material. Researcher also provide suggestions to teacher regarding the lack of student learning media, which is dictionaries, teacher can provide vocabulary lists at the end of each lesson. Teachers must also make learning activities more creative so that students prefer learning English. Suggestions for schools, and teachers' teaching preparations, lesson plans must be required to become teachers' teaching guidelines so that learning activities run better. Further research that examines the same topic as this, can also examine the effectiveness of the strategy teacher used to overcome the challenges.
