THE CONCURRENT CRIMES OF GENDER IDENTITY FORGERY AND UNAUTHORIZED USE OF ACADEMIC DEGREES IN THE PERSPECTIVE OF CRIMINAL LAW REFORM IN INDONESIA

ABSTRACT

This study aims to 1) determine and analyze the legal regulations on the concurrency of criminal acts of falsification of gender identity and without the right to use academic degrees in Indonesia; 2) determine and analyze the future criminal procedural law policy on the concurrency of criminal acts of falsification of gender identity and without the right to use academic degrees in Indonesia. The research method used is the normative legal research method and the approaches used are the statutory approach and the conceptual approach and the case approach. The analysis of the legal materials used in this study was carried out by interpreting, evaluating and assessing all laws and regulations and assessing relevant legal materials. The results of the study indicate that 1) The legal regulations on the concurrency of criminal acts of falsification of gender identity and without the right to use academic degrees in Indonesia that in Article 65 of the Criminal Code are appropriate, only in the enforcement of criminal law in the criminal justice system is not consistent in applying it, resulting in injustice between perpetrators of criminal acts; 2) The future criminal procedure law policy regarding the concurrency of criminal acts of falsification of gender identity and without the right to use academic degrees must be emphasized so that criminal law enforcers do not hesitate and have the same understanding. For this reason, the application of the concursus provisions of Article 65 of the Criminal Code concursus realis must be implemented and applied starting from the investigation, prosecution, and judges in deciding criminal acts of concurrency and its sentencing system in order to avoid tolerating criminal acts committed by the defendant.
